General Tips on Staying Safe Overseas

- Research your destination and be familiar with the local area, including safe transportation options and reputable establishments.
- If you are travelling for medical or cosmetic procedures, you should inform yourself of both the risks and benefits of any procedures, and discuss your plans carefully with your medical practitioner before committing to any procedure abroad.
- Learn about any specific health risks in the country you are visiting.
- Be aware of cultural differences in the country you are holidaying or travelling in.
- Ensure you have enough medication for your stay, and extra in case of delays. Be sure to check you can bring your medication to the country you are visiting.
- Always take sensible precautions to protect yourself and your belongings. Avoid taking unnecessary risks, use only official transport, remain in well-populated areas after dark and stick together with your travel companions.
- Be sun safe – use sunscreen with a good SPF (ideally 30 or higher), spend time in the shade, and don't forget your sunglasses and hat.
- Alcohol consumption: always try to ensure drinks are poured from an original, sealed bottle. Never drink a beverage that has been left unattended. Be careful not to drink excessively which may impair your decision making or leave you more vulnerable while abroad.
- If you run out of money, have your bank card or cash stolen, or encounter other financial difficulties, you should have arrangements in place to access additional emergency funds.
- If you are planning to do some adventure sports – such as white water rafting, skiing, bungee jumping – make sure your travel insurance policy also covers this.
